REASONS FOR JUDGMENT

There are no genuine issues of material fact and defendants are entitled to judgment as a matter of law. The five plaintiffs all ate the chicken and none noticed anything deleterious at the time they consumed the chicken. In fact, it wasn't until the next day when someone was reheating the leftover chicken (presumably because they enjoyed it the day before) that it is alleged the chicken had maggots on/in it. While some of the plaintiffs were seen the next day in the ER none of the medical records reflect a diagnosis of food poisoning caused by the consumption of the chicken.

Signed this 25 day of March, 2024, in Gretna, Louisiana.

JUDGE STEPHEN D. ENRIGHT, JR.
